STUDY IN SUN—The Provo Municipal Airport said that the temperature was 84 degrees there Tuesday. Students search the campus for shade, find very little.

and relax on the lawns for the hot afternoon. The weatherman promises more of the same today as an "unseasonable hot spell" has hit Utah.

John Kennedy Wins in West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 11 — (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), a Roman Catholic, shattered the religious issue as a significant factor in the 1960 campaign today by trouncing Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) in the West Virginia Democratic Presidential primary.

Humphrey immediately bowed out as a candidate for the White House.

THE CONVINCING victory increased the 42-year-old Kennedy's already long lead in the race for the Democratic Presidential nomination and may have clinched the prize for him.

The West Virginia primary vote does not bind the state's 25-vote delegation to the Democratic national convention. Undeclared delegates were elected separately in the same primary. Kennedy's victory, in fact, may have greater impact outside than inside West Virginia as the returns are read by Democratic leaders who have been uneasy about the nomination of a Catholic for the Presidency.

HUMPHREY, a Congregationalist, congratulated his rival for "a significant and clear cut victory," and announced he was no longer a candidate for the nomination and said he would seek reelection next fall to the Senate from his home state of Minnesota.

Graduation Cards Ready for Seniors

All graduation and name cards are now ready. They may be picked up at the times designated. To facilitate easy distribution and to help seniors avoid lines, distribution will be as follows:

Wednesday, A through D; Thursday, E through J; Friday, K through M; Monday, N through R; Tuesday, S through Z. All others who have not previously ordered may do so next Wednesday.

Ike to Face Questioning On Spy Issue

Newsman Seek Facts About Plane

WASHINGTON, May 11 — (UPI) — President Eisenhower may make his first public statement today about the downing of an American spy plane in Russia and its international implications.

The President scheduled a news conference at 10:30 a.m. The fact that he decided to go ahead with the question-and-answer session indicated he was willing to talk about the touchy plane incident.

REPORTERS were loaded with questions and the subject appeared certain to dominate the press conference, unless Eisenhower himself cut off the discussion of it.

Among the more likely questions:

—What effect will the incident have on the Big Four summit conference, which opens Monday in Paris?

—WILL THE President go ahead with his scheduled visit to Russia next month in view of the Soviet threats against this country?

—How far will the United States go to back up its pledge to defend allied nations who allow American reconnaissance planes to use their airfields?

—JUST HOW extensive are American espionage activities behind the Iron Curtain and how much control does the President have over them?

—Does the President have information indicating the U. S. plane may have landed because of mechanical difficulties instead of being shot down by a supersonic Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev claim?

—WHAT EFFORTS will be made to aid the American pilot, Francis G. Powers, who the Russians said will be "brought to account" — presumably to trial on espionage charges?

The United States warned Russia yesterday that it would use any force necessary to defend its allies if they become targets of Russian attack for permitting U. S. intelligence flights from their bases.

KHRUSHCHEV has threatened to launch rocket attacks on any Allied bases in Europe and Asia that are used for spy flights. He aimed his threat at Pakistan, Norway and Turkey, which the Russians said were involved in Powers' flight plans.

Modern Engineering Symposium Set

A symposium of modern engineering techniques will be held at Brigham Young University Saturday beginning with registration at 8:00 a.m. in room 167 McKay Bldg.

The meet is being sponsored by the BYU College of Physical and Engineering Sciences, BYU Adult Education and Extension Services, American Smelting and Refining Company, Consolidated Western Steel Division, EIMCO Corporation, Hercules Powder Company, Sperry-Utah Engineering Laboratory and Utah Oil Refining Company.

INTRODUCTORY remarks and the general assembly will begin at 9:30 a.m. followed by the first session of the symposium. Four sessions will be held during the day with participants dividing up to attend discussions on materials and design, heat transfer and fluid mechanics, automatic control, and computers and transistors during each session.

The program is designed for orientation in general and specific areas of the engineering sciences. Since the problems of travel frequently limits the attendance to national conventions, the presentation of specific recent developments with important implications for the future should offer an opportunity frequently not available to the Utah engineer.

FEATURED GUEST speaker will be John O. Almen, former director of the Mechanical Section of General Motors Research.

Other speakers for the one-day meet will be Wayne M. Beebe, assistant professor of mechanical engineering; John N. Cannon, assistant professor of mechanical engineering; Darrel J. Monson, associate professor of electrical engineering; David Bartholomew, professor of electrical engineering; Wilton G. Wille, assistant professor of mechanical engineering; C. Edwin Dean, director of Computer Research; Dr. H. Tracy Hall, director of research; Dr. John M. Simonsen, chairman of the Department of Mechanical Engineering; Richard C. Woodbury, assistant professor of electrical engineering; Dr. James J. Christensen, chairman of the Department of Chemical Engineering; and Dr. Jens J. Johnson, chairman of the Department of Electrical Engineering, all of BYU.

Stop Spy Flights...

Russia Warns U. S.

MOSCOW, May 11—(UPI)—Russia warned today that if any more U. S. planes are detected over Soviet territory the Kremlin will take "more drastic action," perhaps involving "the security of the United States."

A Radio Moscow broadcast beamed to the United States, recalled the shooting down of an American reconnaissance plane over Russia on May Day.

"THE SOVIET Union, like any self-respecting country, is not going to stand by and let this kind of thing happen again," the broadcast said.

"If these American flights over our territory do not cease, the Soviet Union will be compelled to take more drastic action and the security of the United States will hardly benefit."

Today's edition of the Communist organ Pravda assailed Secretary of State Christian A. Herter for his declaration that U. S. reconnaissance flights will continue until satisfactory arrangements for the prevention of surprise attack can be made.

The government organ Izvestia charged that U. S. bases in Turkey, Norway and Pakistan are "being used as active springboards for armed provocations and diversionary escapades."

IZVESTIA SAID foreign governments which join the United States in "aggressive alignments should realize what they are doing."

Meanwhile, Soviet airmen were rushing preparations for a press showing at which the wreckage of the American U-2 reconnaissance plane—and perhaps its pilot—would be put on display.

Informed sources said Russian and foreign newsmen would be invited to Chess Hall in Gorki Park—probably later today—to see the wreckage. It was not immediately certain whether Francis G. Powers, 30-year-old pilot of the U-2, also would be present.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev had indicated earlier that Powers would appear at a news conference here soon.

The Stagline

Are social unit members dominating the AWS and AMS lists? If social units are dominating the councils, are one unit controlling the selection of council members?

These are two questions which have been hashed around various circles. The answer to both groups involved in question one is no. First, as far as the AWS is concerned, allow no more than five girls affiliated with social units in appointments. This has good and bad points.

The AMS has the right idea, as they set no limit. According to Walt Hill, next year's AMS prexy, 50-60 men appear for the council's 15 positions. "Out of this number, I estimate 50 percent were social unit members" relates the president. However, only six social unit members were of for council duty.

Which brings us to our second question. Out of the 15, are Tau-Sigs, two are Val Hyrics, and the other is a man, according to Hill. Some units complain that year after year the council is loaded with Tau Sigs and Val Hyrics.

"We would like to have at least one member from each working with the council in some way," says Hill. However, one unit does not even apply and some of those who do so just for the unit's sake. Out of the 40 percent of unit members that applied, it is estimated that 25 percent of them were Tau Sigs and Val Hyrics.

The AMS has a job to do and they have to pick the left to do it. They have to pick the best . . . in a unit or not unit.

Val Hyrics will hold their annual "Val Luau" at the Boat House Saturday night. Dress will be Hawaiian all as the music. The floor show will be put on by one of campus Polynesian groups, and the boat house will be decorated with Hawaiian murals. Boats will be available for evening rides, and the meat will be barbecued by Hawaiian experts.

Youth Find Way Tough For School

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. May 11.—(UPI)—Almost half of the world's school age children are not in school and are growing up with no opportunity to develop their talents and skills.

For the most part, these unfortunate children live in the economically less developed countries where schools are few and far between and where even the pittance earnings of minors are needed to help keep families from starving.

IN THE advanced nations such as the United States the problem of educating young people today is not so much one of teaching them the "three R's," which they learn as a matter of course, as of channeling their tremendous creative energy and pioneering spirits into socially useful work. These questions are discussed in a thoughtful report issued recently by the director-general of the International Labor Organization, linked to the United Nations.

THE REPORT pointed out that adults everywhere are so preoccupied that they do not give sufficient attention to primary issues of youth's development and its relations with the community.

The issues are of staggering size in Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America, where millions of children under the age of 15 work long hours on farms, in factories, mines and offices. Even if the schools existed to accommodate them all, their families could not spare them from their jobs. The poverty in these continents makes child labor indispensable.

IN COUNTRIES which already have an educational system, the report stressed, young people need more guidance than they are now getting to help them choose suitable occupations.

In the underdeveloped nations, too many educated youths prepare themselves for white-collar jobs instead of for technical and professional occupations where trained manpower is in short supply.

Cage Slate Features 7 Home Games

An impressive seven-game homestand in pre-conference practice tills highlights the 1960-61 Brigham Young University basketball schedule announced today.

IN ALL the Cougars will host 14 home games during the 26-contest tilt. While not as tough as last year's "who's who" type schedule, this year's slate contains enough top flight competition to test Coach Stan Watts' charges.

After opening with a double-header against Washington in Seattle the Cats return to their own polished hardwoods for the longest home-stand in numerous campaigns.

A SIZEABLE holiday trip to the Pointsett Tournament to be held in South Carolina against Louisiana State, Furman and Citadel, will constitute the longest journey of the season for the Cougars. The Cats will meet Louisville in Kentucky's spacious Fairgrounds Exposition Center en route to the journey. The mammoth arena holds in excess of 37,000 spectators.

Washington, Miami, Kansas and Kansas State are the only holdovers from the 1959-60 Puma practice parade.

THE COUGARS begin the Sky-line race on Jan. 7 with a home game against Montana.

Teams to be featured with the Cougars in Provo are Oklahoma, Miami (Fla.), Texas Christian, Memphis State, New Mexico State, Kansas and Kent State.

Miami's Hurricanes ranked as the number two offensive team in the nation last year while Kansas was listed among the nation's top twenty in the final poll of the '60 season.
